

George Ajjan is an international political consultant and strategist who has advised heads of state, ministers, parties, candidates, elected officials, and other political figures all around the world.

When it comes to election campaigns, Mr. Ajjan brings a sound, data-based approach to public opinion research and strategy development. Having deployed projects in more than 20 countries on 5 continents, he is keenly aware of the need to adapt fundamentally proven techniques to the peculiarities of the local terrain to obtain optimal results for his clients.

Additionally, his political analyses have been sought out by some of the world's top media. Mr. Ajjan has been cited in the New York Times, the Wall Street Journal, the Guardian, the Independent, and the New Yorker, among others, while networks as diverse as CNN, the BBC, France 24, CNBC, Sky News, RT, CGTN, Fox News, and al-Jazeera have benefited from his insights on American political dynamics and vital international issues.

He began his political career in the US, counseling politicians at every level on all aspects of research, media, and campaign operations, starting with his own congressional run in 2004. Mr. Ajjan then expanded the practice to the global arena, and through the international political consulting firm Ajjan Associates, serves top-tier clients across Europe, the Middle East, Australia, and Africa, accessing a world-class network of pollsters, lobbyists, and fundraisers.

Born and raised in New Jersey, he received a Bachelor's degree from The Johns Hopkins University. Following a successful career at Procter & Gamble, he earned an MBA from the London Business School in 2003.
